Scripps College to Host Samin Nosrat, Pioneering Chef, Award- Winning Author and Netflix Star of *Salt, Fat, Acid, Heat

CLAREMONT, CA (4 April 2019)—Scripps College will host award-winning chef and author Samin Nosrat on Tuesday, April 16, 2019, at 7 p.m. in Garrison Theater as part of the College's signature event series, Scripps Presents. Nosrat will share stories from her life and discuss her passion for food and writing in conversation with Gillian Ferguson, former supervising producer for KCRW's Good Food and food writer for such publications as Los Angeles Magazine and the Los Angeles Times.

Nosrat won the James Beard Award for her book Salt, Fat, Acid, Heat: Mastering the Elements of Good Cooking and hosts the popular Netflix series of the same name. Her book and show break new ground by featuring the labor of cooks who have traditionally been underrepresented in the culinary world, and her appearance at Scripps comes soon after the announcement of her next book, What to Cook. Nosrat's multifaceted career, influenced by chef Alice Waters and journalist Michael Pollan, demonstrates the success of her interdisciplinary approach to bringing more people to the table.

Nosrat's appearance marks the first of several food-focused events planned for future seasons of Scripps Presents. Founded in 2016, the event series is committed to hosting compelling, thought-provoking conversations with emerging writers, performers, and thinkers. While the series aligns with the College's mission to "educate women...through active participation in a community of scholars," events are open to the public and tickets are free.

Additional information about Scripps Presents is available on the College's website.
