

INTERESTED IN A CAREER IN JOURNALISM OR PUBLISHING?

Writing Your Way Out of College

April 22, 2015, 4:15-6:15 p.m.

Vita Nova 100, Scripps College

What is the future of journalism and publishing? What do you need to know about making a start in the field? Come hear two successful young professionals, Nicole Allan and Rachel Rosenfelt, discuss their experiences in the field in conversation with Mary Routt Chair of Writing Bill Deresiewicz. Bring your thoughts and questions.

FMI: Contact Phoebe Bass - (909) 607-3250 or pbass@scrippscollege.edu.

Rachel Rosenfelt is the co-founder, publisher and former Editor-in-Chief of The New Inquiry. In addition to her work at TNI, Rachel is a part-time faculty member at The New School and Creative Director of Verso Books.

Nicole Allan is a Senior Editor of The California Sunday Magazine. She is a former senior editor of The Atlantic and has also written for Slate, The New Republic, and Pacific Standard.

William Deresiewicz is the Scripps College 2015 Mary Routt Chair of Writing. He is a widely published essayist, book critic and author. He is a Contributing Writer to The Nation and a Contributing Editor to The American Scholar.

Presented by the Mary Routt Chair of Writing and the Scripps College Writing Program.